

Statement on World Telecommunication and Information Society Day 2023

Today we live in a society that cannot function without telecommunications and easy access to information, and it doesn't matter if you are a stockbroker, a taxi driver, or an artist. We all need telecommunications to operate, be successful and be more efficient in today's environment. Today we can do what used to take us hours, days or even months, within seconds.

Unlike in the past when the news and other media events were only broadcast via radio waves on limited compatible devices such as TV, radio, and cell phones, today with the advancement in telecommunications technology these restrictions are non-existent.

Furthermore, people can now access information from major news outlets and radio stations from the internet on many devices, such as Smartphones, tablets, laptops, and consoles. Therefore, we must celebrate and recognise accomplishments in telecommunications and how they facilitate our daily lives in this global village.